

There's A Rolling River

There's a rolling river in your soul, where you can find what few men know. There's a fragrant garden in the center of your soul, where the weak get strong and narrow minds can grow.

Won't you stay with me forever, as we pursue our endless goal, as we try to find the freedom in the center of our souls. Don't go away, wish you would stay, we'll find our way in the center of our souls.

There's a rolling river in your soul, an eternal giver with a rich and endless flow, there's a world of love within the center of your soul, where the rich are rarely seen, but the poor are free to go.

Won't you stay with me forever, as we pursue our endless goal, as we try to find the freedom in the center of our souls. Don't go away, wish you would stay, we'll find our way in the center of our souls.
